

MEDIA CONTACT:

Laura Nobles

Nobles Communications

310-795-0497

laura@noblescommunications.com

THREE-SIXTY ADVISORY GROUP APPOINTS CARLOS BROWN, M.D., TO SCIENTIFIC ADVISORY BOARD

PASADENA, Calif. – September 1, 2008 – Three-Sixty Advisory Group, LLC, a business accelerator for emerging health-care and medical technology companies, has added Carlos V.R. Brown, M.D., to its scientific advisory board. A board-certified trauma surgeon with more than 15 years of experience in clinical research, education and practice, Dr. Brown will offer Three-Sixty clients valuable perspective and insight towards the rapid and successful commercialization of their new technologies and services.

“Dr. Brown is an exceptional addition to Three-Sixty’s scientific advisory board,” said John G. Nackel, Ph.D., founder, chairman and chief executive officer of Three-Sixty Advisory Group. “As an experienced surgeon, researcher and educator, he will offer clients the kind of practical input that will make a real difference in executing their commercialization strategies.”

Dr. Brown is currently the trauma medical director for University Medical Center at Brackenridge, Austin, a Level 1 Trauma Center. He also serves as associate professor of surgery at the University of Texas Medical Branch School of Medicine. Prior to these positions, he was the assistant professor of surgery at the University of Southern California, Keck School of Medicine and the trauma service chief at Los Angeles County/University of Southern California Medical Center. Brown has also served on the medical staff of Children’s Hospital Los Angeles, Naval Medical Center San Diego and Scripps Mercy Hospital, San Diego. He is widely published in peer-reviewed clinical journals and regularly speaks at medical meetings.

In addition to his civilian appointments, Dr. Brown served in the United States Navy for 14 years, during which time he served in numerous positions, including the director of the Naval Trauma Training Center in Los Angeles and the lead trauma surgeon in the Ramadi Surgical Detachment, Iraq. He has been the recipient of numerous military awards, including the Bronze Star, the Navy Commendation Medal and the Global War on Terrorism Service Medal.

“My partnership with Three-Sixty Advisory Group represents a unique and exciting opportunity to experience the newest medical technologies first-hand,” said Dr. Brown. “I look forward to being part of an advisory team that can help bring the kinds of products to market that can significantly advance physician practice and patient care.”

About Three-Sixty Advisory Group, LLC

Founded in 2007, Three-Sixty Advisory Group is a business accelerator that helps emerging health-care and medical technology companies speed their time to value. Not an incubator, the company works with businesses that have an existing product or service to accelerate growth, efficiency and capital. Three-Sixty offers clients investment opportunity assessment, access to financing and a host of business acceleration services that include hands-on support in executive-level management as well as nearly every functional business area. For more information, visit www.360ag.com.

###